

IVCF Holds Conference Next Week

Gregson, Murphy Will Be Heard At Annual Event

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will hold its annual conference and student rally in the McGill Union on Saturday, March 14th, afternoon and evening. This will be an opportunity for all students to learn about the I.V.C.F. and the work which it is trying to do for Christ on the campus.

It will also be an opportunity to hear such men as Wing Commander Gregson and Rev. Maurice Murphy who, not long out of college themselves, have a definite message for university students. Wing Commander Gregson will be the principal speaker of the day. He is a graduate of Cambridge University and is head of Chaplaincy Service of the R.A.F. in Canada and the U.S.A. The discussion period, which takes place in the afternoon, will be led by Maurice Murphy, a graduate of the University of Toronto and former president of the I.V.C.F. there. The discussion will deal with the problems of Christian Students in relation to their university pursuits. The conference is open to all students and friends.

Book Table Featured
Featured at the Conference will be the book table. There will be available for sale a variety of Christian literature, particularly of an evangelical and missionary nature. There will also be a supply of books and pamphlets telling about the work of the Fellowship in Canada, in the U.S.A., and abroad. The Book Table will be in charge of Ruth White, B.A. Miss White graduated from McGill in 1940. She was at one time Women's Vice-President of the McGill Christian Fellowship.

At a luncheon to be held at one o'clock today, Joe Curry, Ontario Field Secretary of the I.V.C.F., will speak. Those who do not wish to come for lunch are welcome to War.

The primary purpose of the university at the moment is to produce men and women capable of winning the war and constructing the peace.

This cannot be accomplished by the Senate or the Principal.

It is a job requiring teamwork and the student body is the team.

What we need is a strong Students' Society, ready to act on the opinion of its members. But it must first promote and extend student activity in order to gauge this opinion. It must withdraw the student from the isolation of his faculty and engage him in larger campus problems. It must stimulate collective thinking and co-operative action—necessary for the hour and for the future.

Proper organization can accomplish these things. One concrete suggestion would be to form an advisory committee to the executive council. This committee would consist of the executive members of the various undergraduate societies, Arts and Science, Medical, Engineering, etc. It would meet at the beginning of each term to draw up a program of inter-faculty activity and appoint responsible persons to see that it is carried out.

Beyond this, student government should see that the students' position is adequately presented to the authorities. Many students are aware of certain inefficiencies in our present war training program and are anxious to see it function

Before presenting the platform which I submit to the students of McGill University for their consideration, I wish to extend my personal thanks to those who nominated me for this office. Should the student body see fit to elect me to this position, it will be my constant endeavor to see that student government is implemented with thoroughness and efficiency and in a democratic manner.

McGill Students War Effort and Post War Reconstruction and Rehabilitation Problems.

The "Democratic Way of Life" is, at the moment, being challenged by the forces of tyranny and despotism. The realities of life burst in upon us and with unwavering confidence we face the issues. We are in no wise discouraged because we know that the time is not far distant when we shall have the "axis powers" in retreat.

Our problem today is not so much how to achieve universal ideals,

May I first of all thank those who nominated me for the position of president of the students executive council.

I feel that the primary duty of the president of the Students Society is to interpret the feelings of the student body on all matters which affect their welfare, and to see that their sentiments are expressed in the proper quarters. Therefore, in presenting this platform, I do not intend to express my own opinions necessarily, but rather, what I feel to be the opinions of the majority of the students.

In these times, the thought foremost in all our minds is how much we are contributing to the successful conclusion of the war. Many of us feel, as we see others entering the armed forces, and munitions industries, that perhaps we are not carrying our share of the burden.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The leaders of our country constantly reiterate that the greatest contribution a student can make today, is to continue his course to its completion. The need for well trained, well educated men, in all departments of our war machine is greater than ever before. Nevertheless, it is obvious that there is an honest desire on the parts of the students to do more than this. Certainly there are many ways in which we can help during the normal college year, without in any way detracting from our studies.

I am of the opinion, that it is the duty of all students to look upon their work as having meaning only if it is directed towards a total war effort. Every activity or development should be encouraged and supported which will help us in reaching our goal—a total war effort on the campus.

The allied war effort is being speeded up and as responsible individuals we must take an active part. We cannot sit back and wait for the Government or the University authorities to take the initiative on matters which directly concern us. Our success in the near future will largely depend upon how fully we realize the necessity of immediate action. We must co-operate intelligently in every phase of war work. With this in mind, I wish to present this platform.

The Application of Selective Service

It is obvious that the President of the Students' Society is not in a position to dictate on the way selective service will be applied to the University, but the student body can be very helpful by actively co-operating with the authorities and by taking an intelligent interest in this matter. The Government has announced that selective service will be fully implemented within a year. We can and must help them to complete the job sooner if possible.

In thanking those who nominated me, I should like to assure them and the whole student body that, if elected to the Presidency of the Student's Society, I shall endeavor to give the campus the most advantageous use of the experience I have gained in extra-curricular activities during my years at McGill, and to execute the duties that fall to me with fairness in everything I may do.

The following are the main points of my platform:

a. More constructive student war effort.

b. Uphold the right to student self-government.

c. Establishment of a depot to obtain information about McGill men overseas.

d. Military Training.

e. Athletics: intercollegiate and intra-mural.

f. Maintenance of student activity if college is open during the summer.

g. An active Freshmen Reception Program.

A Student War Effort.

If national selective service is established in the near future, then those who remain to study must be given:

a) First and foremost, every opportunity to study and study well.

b) Second, encouragement and facilities to turn their spare time and activity to the benefit of Canada's war effort.

c) Third, every opportunity to maintain whatever extra-curricular

Nominees for Positions State Their Programs In Afternoon's Session

Club Hispanico Will Hear J. R. Pichetto

South American culture will be considered tonight by Dr. Juan R. Pichetto at the Club Hispanico meeting which will be held in the Union Grillroom at 8.15.

Dr. Pichetto who is a member of the staff of the Argentine Department of Labour is temporarily in charge of Spanish publications at the International Labour Office here. A lawyer by profession, Dr. Pichetto is making a study of Canadian economic, social and political institutions while here.

An election of officers for next year's executive will also be held at this meeting. Spanish music will round out the evening's program and refreshments will be served.

Politicos Hear Two Papers

Just Basis of World Trade Is Considered

"The Future of International Trade" will be the topic under discussion at tonight's meeting of the Political Economy Club in the Music Room of the McGill Room. The discussion will be preceded by two papers on the subject presented by Thomas Wainman-Wood and Esmond Goldman.

Goldman will consider the topic from a general point of view and will outline a few possibilities of desirable methods of reconstructing world trade on a basis of fairness to all after the war. Wainman-Wood on the other hand will consider the question of world trade with particular reference to the particular role of Canada in post-war international trade.

One of the speakers stated that the topic under discussion should prove of interest to all who attend the meeting. The question of international trade which has long been a subject of much controversy forms, he said, an integral part of the problems of war aims. The speaker feels that it is of the utmost importance that students of economics and world affairs in general should think seriously about the future of world trade now. As a result of so doing, many factors which have given rise to far reaching difficulties in the past might be eliminated, he concluded.

Candidates for Positions

The Students' Society Presidential candidates speaking in Moyse Hall will be R. Stewart Willis, J. Leonard Starkey, William K. MacDonald, H. Lloyd Henderson, and Robert G. Cripps.

Commerce Undergrads Call For Nominations to Posts

The Commerce Undergraduate Society is calling for the nominations for executive positions due this Saturday, March 7, before noon.

Elections Meeting To Hear Platforms In Moyse Hall at 5.15

This afternoon at 5.15 p.m., McGill students will hear the platforms of major college candidates presented in Moyse Hall. This Elections Meeting is to be an open session, where candidates will each have a chance to speak before the Students' Society, and will afterwards answer any questions on their intended policy.

Today's meeting is following the plan begun last year of giving the students a chance to know their candidates, or to find out more about them, before the votes are cast. Each candidate for Students' Society President will be apportioned five minutes of the program to give an outline of his plans for next year, and to explain how he will carry them out, should he be

Two Debating Features Will Take Place This Evening

Two debating events will take place tomorrow. The one, a meeting of the Debating Union Society, will feature Miss Sutherland commenting on addresses to be presented by McGill and R.V.C. students. The meeting will be held this evening in the Common Room at R.V.C.

In addition a meeting of the Montreal Debating League will take place today at the Mount Royal Hotel at 8.15 p.m. The resolution will be "Resolved that Voluntary Charitable Organizations be Replaced by State Control."

At the former meeting Miss Sutherland will give the students advice on public speaking and will point out the spots in their speeches which might be improved. Six students will speak during the meeting for approximately five minutes on miscellaneous topics. These subjects will be written on pieces of paper and placed in a hat; each student will draw his topic and will discuss it for five minutes. The students selected are Stephanie Zuperko, Ina Charlson, Louise Skutezky, Fred Vosburg and Pat Hyndman. Miss Sutherland is a well known public speaker as well as being a member of an amateur dramatic club.

During the meeting the McGill Debating Society will defend the negative side of the above resolution and as a result will not have an opportunity to rebut the opposition. The Montreal Debating Society will be represented by Ivy Lawrence who is acting as the leader for the negative side, and the Spoke Club will be represented by

Macc Circle to Be Having Social Evening Saturday

The Maccabean Circle is holding the year's last social evening on Saturday night. It is to take place at Anita Rudolph's home, 425 Champagne Avenue. Tickets are to be purchased at the door, and are 55 cents a couple.

The Radio Mechanics of the R.C.A.F. stationed on the campus are invited by the executive to be present.

The plans for the closing banquet of the Circle are being completed. It will be on Sunday night, March 22nd.

Coeds To Give Union Platforms

Decision to Be Made Concerning Senior Dinner

The annual meeting of the Women's Union will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock in the R.V.C. Common Room. This gathering is open to all McGill co-eds.

The candidates for the official posts of the Women's Union will be introduced and will present their platforms. The three candidates for the presidency are Ruth Hill, Karlene Norton, and Stephanie Zuperko. Along with these, Joan Waterson and Marjorie Cross, who are running for secretary of the Women's Union, will each present her platform. By means of this the co-eds will have an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the candidates and their ideas. It is especially desirable that the freshettes should come, that they may meet the girls before voting.

All clubs connected with the Women's Union will give their annual reports. A discussion will also be held to give the executive an idea of whether or not the co-eds want the Senior dinner.

R.V.C. Historical Club Convenes This Evening

The meeting of the R.V.C. Historical Club will take place this evening at 8.15 p.m. in the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity 768 Sherbrooke St. and not at 646 Sherbrooke St. as was previously announced. There will be two speakers who will talk on some topic of history which it is thought should be of interest not only to students of history but to any others who might wish to attend.

Nominations for next year's executive will be received, and the date for elections will be announced later.

Society Meeting

No story appears on the front page of the McGill Daily for the following reason: The matters discussed concerned the Daily. Any statements made in a news story, therefore, might be considered unfair to both sides. The points discussed and the arguments advanced were lengthy and the argumeny was heavy on both sides. We give you, therefore, in view of the impossibility of arriving at a satisfactory news story which could bring forth accurately all arguments in a manner acceptable to both sides of the argument.

No quorum was present. The number of students at the meeting varied from about 20 to about 65. The meeting, however, agreed to hear the arguments of both sides. This was done. A motion was passed which censured the Daily's policy in regard to its "assuming powers of censorship without legal or moral right," stating that such was not helping towards a maximum war effort. We regret that the exact words of the motion passed are not available at the moment, but will be printed as soon as possible. The vote on this motion was 17 to 12.

Use Intelligence

Reprinted From "McGill Daily" Issue of Tuesday, February 26, 1935.

At this time of the year when the candidates for the various campus posts submit their platforms, the average college student would do well to find out who is running for the various positions, what his qualifications are and whether he would have sufficient time to carry out the duties involved next year.

During the next few days the Daily will do its utmost to place before the electorate the merits of each candidate in an impartial manner. At the same time a series of editorials will be run discussing the posts to be held, pointing out the amount of work involved.

Occasionally a candidate gets nominated for a post without realizing the responsibility for the post. Each candidate should study the position for which he is running and if he discovers that he will not have time to carry out the necessary duties or if he feels he has not the necessary talents or ability he should withdraw his name from the lists.

Nothing can play more havoc with student institutions than to have the wrong people elected to these important posts. Many of these positions involve considerable responsibility, for not only planning programmes and entertainments, but involve real estate and a large amount of money.

We hope that by running platforms and concurrently placing the responsibilities of the various posts before the electorate in the editorial columns we may bring out the abilities of the candidates.

War Aims

REVIEW OF ARTICLES.
By Paul Tillich.

Hitler's best gift to America has taken the form of a number of brilliant and accomplished exiles who have come to this continent in protest against his tyranny. Outstanding among these exiles is the theologian, Paul Tillich, who is now on the staff of Union Theological Seminary, New York City. Both from the point of view of education and practical experience he is well fitted to write upon the subject "War Aims." The following exposition is an analysis of his views as they appeared in a recent series of articles in "The Protestant."

Why War Aims?

In his attempt to answer the question "What does this war mean?" Tillich declares that the meaning of any human action is to be identified with the purpose of that action. The meaning of this war is to be found in the aims of the parties involved. The negative answer that the aim of the democracies is self-defence is not sufficient, but the positive answers which have been given up until the present time are either reactionary or unauthoritative. All statements of war aims have been complicated by the general fear of creating a split in the anti-Hitler war front. A religious interpretation, however, is not limited by such tactical restrictions, and can afford to be realistic in the fullest sense of the term. The significance of such a statement does not lie in its function as a blueprint of future treaty, or in its function as propaganda. The democratic war effort is hindered rather than helped by cheap slogans, whose meaningless fails to convince the now skeptical masses. The real significance of a sincere statement of war aims, "is to create a vision beyond the present status of our world for which it is meaningful to fight, to suffer and to die." The lack of such a vision is the outstanding weakness of our present democratic existence.

Defence would be a sufficient war aim, if it were true that the attack against democracy actually came from without. The fact is, however, that within the democracies social injustice, which has so often been defended by all the power of the political state, has called forth the revolutionary response of Communism, and against that Communism Fascism has been used as a tool.

"The war aim democracy must state is a social, political and intellectual structure of life in which the conditions of the present catastrophe are overcome. These conditions are not bad accidents, but structured trends, rooted in the very essence of bourgeois democracy."

It is a mistake to claim that the causes of the war are to be found in the mistake of a peace treaty, in the rise of evil men to unlimited power, in the clash of competing imperialisms, or in the economic contradictions of a late stage of capitalism. All these conditions are decidedly important, but the all-embracing reason is the breaking down of the presupposition on which liberal democracy was based, namely: "That the pursuing of the individual interest would create a universal harmony of interests." The result of this disintegration within democracy is seen in the susceptibility of the masses to anti-liberal propaganda, and the openness of the ruling classes to Fascism. The situation is one which can be corrected only by the adoption of a new goal, a goal which is as necessary for peace as it is for the immediate pursuit of the war.

What War Aims?

Of the two war aims which Tillich sets forward, the first is: "The freedom of the nations is dependent upon a super-national unity in which each nation actively participates and which has the power to protect it against insecurity and conquest."

The adoption of this war aim implies four specific policies, which should be noted at this point. It means the elimination of the Nazis; but it also means that the war shall be carried on only up to the point where it becomes possible to put this aim into effect. It means the preservation of an independent and united continent of Europe, and, dependent on that, the elimination of all war aims which imply a return to sovereign nation states.

Whatever we may say about modern technological progress, from a religious point of view, we must admit that it has created a "world" in the sense of an interrelatedness of all things. The creation of this new "world" imposes a demand for a larger super-national unity. The creation of such a unity presupposes the abdication of the sovereignty of each nation and with that abdication the surrender of the principal of the balance of power. There can be no national freedom, but international anarchy only, until the individual nations surrender their sovereignty. The misery of two world wars is convincing proof of the fact that balancing of powers is no longer a feasible method of resolving international tensions. The creation of a federal union, based on the will of the people and not on the diplomacy of governments, means that military, diplomatic and economic sovereignty will be given to the union as a whole. While the creation of such a union is demanded by practical politics it is not to be expected that it will be attained without opposition from national rulers. The second world war should be sufficient to convince the people of Europe, at least, that if a third world war is to be averted, a federal union must be created.

The second war aim is as important as the first. It may be expressed as follows: "The freedom of the individual is dependent on a social and economic organization in which each individual actively participates and which has the power to protect him against insecurity and exploitation."

It is apparent that the situation within the nation is parallel in two important respects to the situation that exists between nations. In place of the absolute sovereign state we have within the nation the principle that the individual or corporation is absolutely independent in doing business, according to the demands of his own private profit. In place of the international balance of power, there is within the nation the principle (if it may be called a principle) that out of the strife of the market as it is played upon by the private interests of the leaders of capital and industry there comes the public good. It was out of this kind of irresponsible society that the present catastrophe developed. The second aim provides that the individual shall be secure from exploitation and insecurity in his quest for creative freedom. The ideal of freedom from want has already been embodied in the Atlantic Charter by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. Just as the present international anarchy must be replaced by a union capable of establishing a system of order within which the nations can act in freedom, so the economic anarchy within the nation must be replaced by a system of planned economy.

It is not to be expected this second war aim can be applied without opposition from the present interests, favored by the present system, but in spite of this very real difficulty, if the suggested social transformation is not accomplished the system of monopolistic competition will lead, in Europe at least, to revolution by the desperate masses. This would lead to a counter revolution on the part of the ruling classes, which, if successful, would lead to a system of suppression more vicious than even the present Nazi tyranny. If, in the present situation, the democracies, especially England, do not present a convincing pattern of social change the establishment of a new order in Europe will fall to other forces.

Whose War Aims?

The question as to whose war aims these are hinges about the questions, who can and who will accept them. While they are acceptable to a minority at the present time, that number must be added to by means of political propaganda. The view that these must necessarily be the war aims of democracy must be supplemented by the knowledge that they cannot be successful without their acceptance by the conquered nations as well as the victors. The whole case is tragically complicated by the fact that at present Europe has been united by a conquest which is calling out a tremendous nationalistic reaction within the conquered countries.

The success of these war aims is formed by several important factors. There are powerful groups in all lands who are struggling for a society where "individual freedom is guaranteed by individual security." Mention has already been made that the Atlantic Charter made the promise of freedom from fear and want a world ideal. The British labour party is powerfully represented on the British War Cabinet. The German and French underground movements are composed of men and women whose education is predominantly socialistic. The alliance with Russia reduces the heat of anti-Russian propaganda, and strengthens progressive sentiment in all countries.

Over against the execution of these war aims there stand out strong reactionary forces in nearly all nations. Within the Axis itself opposition to Nazism comes from not only the left wing but also from a nationalistic, militaristic and capitalistic group who would, if successful, introduce another kind of Fascism. The present exiled continental rulers do not stand to gain personally by the application of these war aims. Within America a hardy capitalism supported by middle class sentiment is opposed both to the ideas of the New Deal and to the Russian alliance, and presents a serious threat to a genuine social reconstruction of Europe. The task that is presented to the supporters of these aims is clearly not merely academic, but a task of practical politics, upon whose success the future of Europe and all mankind depends.

—R. A. WILSON.

Varied Verse

Of Spring and More

Of trees that were reborn and they lived,
Of wheels that were rolled and they rolled,
Of steel that was sharpened and it was blunt,
Of glass that shone with the blinding sun.

And I did steal a horse that fed
On oats that bloomed with a burning sun,
And up the hills it stormed the beast
For want of earth with shoes of steel.

And knees then clung to solid ribs
That held the lungs from growing wings,
For I did steal the horse that was
One with me and with the spring.

Then water splashed and much did flow,
For I did know and I did not know
That before the spring there was much
That was the winter and the snow.

For I did steal a horse they said
And steel and steel were not but one,
And I did ask and without shame
If they did know or did not know
That I had known not only winter
But spring and also summer and the desert.

The Montreal personality who has sprung up in radio and gained the most recognition for his work is Charles Rittenhouse. The other night we had a talk with Mr. Rittenhouse at the M.R.T. studios, where he was busy rehearsing a cast for the forthcoming production of an original Canadian production written by Janet McPhee, entitled Jupiter in Retreat. Included in the cast are two well known Montreal radio actors, Betty Taylor and Tom McBride. After rehearsal was over Mr. Rittenhouse came over and told us of the more interesting features of his career in the drama and radio.

At the present time drama director for the Montreal Protestant Schools, Rittenhouse is well qualified for the position, which is a new one in Montreal school history. He obtained his M.A. at McGill and then proceeded to Yale where he took an advanced course in the drama. He has taught at West Hill High School, where he was responsible for the tremendously successful production of Shakespeare's plays. Of his "Romeo and Juliet," Thomas Archer, Gazette critic, said "A show like that comes once in fifty years."

Concerning his broadcast, of "Propaganda" which we review elsewhere in the column, Rittenhouse tells us that the script was written in eight hours. He says that it is the fastest script he has ever written, and the best, and we are inclined to agree with him. Hugh Kemp, another well known Montreal radio writer, helped with the script but most of the work was done by Rittenhouse. Owing to pressure of rehearsals he sat down at the typewriter on Saturday morning with little idea of how his story was going to end. Once he got into the script, however, everything worked out for the best and on Monday morning after a furious session most of which was spent retyping, he handed the script in for mimeographing.

Rittenhouse arrived in radio suddenly. One morning last year, he received a telephone call from an advertising agency asking him to prepare an audition script. He did so, cast his show and rushed down to CKAC to record it. It so happened that the most important part of the show was sound effects but, as luck would have it, the sound equipment was not up to par. When the record was cut, he was convinced that the contract had flown out the window and even more so, when he found out the sponsor had listened in to the dress rehearsal where there had been a lot of clowning. The next morning he received another phone call from the agency telling him that the sponsor had liked the show. But how could he have liked it," he asked. "Everything went wrong." "Oh, that's all right," came the reply. "The sponsor does not understand English anyway."

Rittenhouse takes a deep interest in his work and he told us of how he instituted radio into Berthelet school, which does not boast of the individuals from the best homes in Montreal, were asked by him to do a play on a war theme. They developed this theme, but most of them complained about learning the lines. Rittenhouse then decided that a radio script, where they would not have to memorize the lines, was the answer. He showed them how to shape up the dialogue and sound cues and let them go to it. The production will take place shortly but the master stroke of the story is that when word reached the higher ups, 20,000 copies were made for distribution throughout the schools in Canada.

The Walter and the Porter and the Upstairs Maid:

The popular song hit comes to life tonight at 9 p.m. when Bing Crosby, Jack Teagarden and Mary Martin, who made it famous in the "Birth of The Blues" get together again on the Music Hall on C.B.M. Bing has invited as his guests Nigel Bruce, (Dr. Watson of Sherlock Holmes) and an army officer to give listeners a picture of part of the immense war activities.

WANT CONCERT SERIES.
Editor, McGill Daily.
Dear Sir,—We would like to most heartily support Mr. Chapman's suggestion for a regular series of musical concerts to be given at the University.

The lack at McGill of those cultural appendages that make a university more than a knowledge-factory is very disappointing, and somewhat discrediting to us. Here is McGill, one of the great cultural centres of the Dominion, without as much as a single course in Aesthetics, Art, or Music Appreciation. Few of the meanest little colleges in the United States that we affect to despise need make a confession like this.

At the larger American universities, such as Columbia and Chicago, regular weekly concerts are given, open gratis to the student. Even the smaller schools succeed in presenting impressive musical programmes, schools that have the excuses of remoteness and small student body that we lack. For example, in the last year Mount Holyoke College, located in a small town in Massachusetts, has played host to such famous musicians as Jose Iturbi, Arthur Rubinstein, and others.

But there is one amendment we would like to make to Mr. Chapman's suggestions: the most important thing is to have the series, not the securing of famous guest artists. In time, this could follow, but to the layman, the difference between a symphony well played and superbly played is slight. Let the day follow the night—the important thing is to arouse interest work's announcers are becoming trilingual. They're learning Spanish and Chinese under the supervision of Ray Diaz, chief announcer of the network. So don't be surprised to hear an announcer say "And as my friends in Rio would say—Ha sido un gran fusto, or, 'tis been a pleasure". . . . NBC announces an Inter-American University of the Air, with a distinguished committee of educationalists. . . . The programs on this series will bring before the public science, democratic governmental processes, Inter-American music, culture, etc., in short an NBC version of the Columbia School of the Americas.

Current and Choice Dialing
For the coming Radio week
Tomorrow night at 10 p.m. the last in the series of All Star Victory Loan presentations will be presented. It will feature Adolphe Menjou and other guests. This series reached a new high in Canadian radio with the presentation last week of Greer Garson, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, James Melton and the Bell Singers, Eric Knight and the R.C.A.F. band all under the direction of Rupert Caplan, Montreal's famous radio producer.

The Barrymores take over Rudy Vallee's program, John, of the Great Profile, Lionel and Diana, John's ingenious daughter. A few weeks back John became serious for a few minutes, lost his hamminess and played Romeo to his daughter's Juliet. . . . To people, who love and know the theatre, this scene brought back nostalgic memories of a Barrymore of another era. The writers of the script were so pleased with response to this broadcast, they have included a serious play in the current half-hour stanza. Producer Dick Mack is worried but the consolation is, that the Barrymores, with or without lines "straight or otherwise," can't miss.

"Propaganda" Presented By High School Students:

On Sunday night at 9 p.m. a picked cast of High School students from Montreal, and a choir made up of specially chosen voices presented an original radio script by Charles Rittenhouse. The only professional actor in the cast was Christopher Ellis, who took the part of a newspaper editor, whose scrapbook of newspaper clippings gave rise to the theme of the broadcast. The script was well written and and support, and to get such a plan underway.

Fifty cents from every student, to be subtracted from his or her caution money, would seem small enough payment for such a programme. Better this than paying for broken beer steins at Faculty Undergraduate dinners and Society party.

The materialist may reject all this as unnecessary and frivolous, but it is the little extras such as these that mark the difference between a good University and a great University.

Pucksters Prepare for Battle — Reds Meet Oilers for Dodds' Cup

Clarkson Tech to Face Farquharson Men Monday

Powerful Ice Squad to Tackle McGill Team

The McGill All-Star Hockey Team, chosen from the outstanding players of the Intra-Mural Hockey League, will take on visitors from south of the border next week as they play a powerful aggregate from Clarkson Tech at the Forum at 9 o'clock Monday. This will be the third outside game which the Redmen will have played this year, having outplayed Loyola once, and lost to the Navy, champions of the Defense League, by a very close score.

For Clarkson, the game will mark the first which they have played on Canadian territory since 1939. This was due to the abolition by Canadian Universities of all Intercollegiate Sports for the duration. In their last venture into foreign lands, Clarkson came out even. They lost to McGill 8-5, tied Toronto 2-2, and conquered Queens 5-3. They will be coming here to avenge their defeat at the hands of the Redmen, and have high hopes of doing so. Leading their offense will be Gene Law, 176 pounds of fighting fury, and their greatest scoring wing since the late Paul Pilon. Latest of his achievements was scoring thirteen goals in a single game against Norwich U., a feat of no mean color. Seven of their men are seniors who will be playing their last game for the Alma Mater, and will be going all out for glory.

To oppose this company of hockeyists Coach Hugh Farquharson of McGill will have a wide assortment of good pucksters from which to choose his squad. Main pivots of attack will undoubtedly be the forward line of Farmer, Crutchfield and Morrison. Of these, Farmer and Morrison are on the Senior Royal team, and are tricky forwards. Guarding the nets will be Ross Ritchie also a member of the Royals. The rest of the team has not yet been chosen, but with such men as Owen, Ward, Keay, Smith, etc., there will be no lack of good material for a formidable team.

In all probability this contest will mark the last important athletic event of the season, and special preparations are being made to make it a ringing success. By the kind permission of Lt.-Col. J. M. Morris, M.C., V.D., O.C. McGill C.O.T.C., the M.R.T.B. band will be in attendance to supply martial airs Plans are also under way to have a regular cheering section in the stands, together with a sprinkling of members of the Scarlet Key and Red Wing Societies to lend a collegiate atmosphere to the surroundings. The game will be open to the public for the nominal fee of 50c, while entrance tickets for students will be available for 35c at the Union Tuckshop, Gym, or from Bill Gentleman or Fred Barton.

Clarkson Tech will send up fourteen men. Their regular team consists of: Goal, Robert Butterworth; Defense, Al Clark, George Maclean; Forwards, Grant Clark, Gene Labonne, Robert Warrington. Subs: Roy Barnes, Robert Blair, Herve Duhamel, Edward Fix, William Holben, Donald Hutton, Alex Kosick, Doug Folkner.

The McGill squad will be chosen after Friday's final practice from the following men: Holden, Nicholson, Chown, Thompson, Malenfant, MacDonald, Crutchfield, Morrison, Farmer, Hibbard, Keay, Earl Smith, I. Hellyer, Young, Owen, Ward, Ritchie, Moncel. One of the following will be chosen on Friday as manager: Waterman, McGibbon and Nixon.

Spotlight on Sports by wyc

Word comes from Clarkson Tech that the American boys are aiming all guns for their meet with McGill on Monday. This will be the first game that the Clarkson team have played with a Canadian team since 1939 when they played McGill, Toronto and Queens and took two of the three games, McGill being the only team that was able to defeat the crack American sextet.

The practice game that McGill played on Monday against the Navy team of the N.D.H.L. was one of the best seen around these parts this year. The Redmen while losing the game in the final period played heads up hockey for the major part of the tilt.

Hugh Farquharson was busy on the Navy bench last Monday and the McGill sextet was under the direction of Nels Crutchfield. Despite Crutchfield's capable handling of the team a lack of knowledge of the abilities of the various players no doubt hindered his proper piloting of the team in the fatal final period.

The list of the Clarkson team shows that eight of the fourteen players hail from Canadian ports and so the Redmen will not have the push-over that might be expected of an American team. Any over confidence that the Redmen may have had was definitely shattered on Monday and they will be out next week to redeem themselves for this game.

Alas! Monday night will also see another major athletic attraction on the campus when the much heralded Naismith Golden Jubilee Basketball game will be held in conjunction with the 60th annual Wicksteed Meet at the gym. It has been found impossible to correct this sad state of affairs brought on by the conflict of dates and the McGill students will have to choose between these two gala attractions.

The money from the Naismith game will go to buy War Savings Certificates which after the war will buy a plaque for the gymnasium foyer in honour of Dr. Naismith, who is one of McGill's famous sons. Dr. Naismith was for several years a physical instructor at McGill and prior to this was a winner of the Wicksteed bronze and silver medals.

The Ferraro men of the Montreal Basketball League have been the shining light of the league this season and have outclassed any of the other teams by a considerable margin. In their second to last game with the Oilers, however, the Redmen turned in somewhat of a surprise against the highly touted quintet and they will be out to repeat the performance on Monday with the added incentive of the Dodds' Cup, emblematic of the City championship.

Holden, Nicholson, Chown, Thompson, Malenfant, MacDonald, Crutchfield, Morrison, Farmer, Hibbard, Keay, Earl Smith, I. Hellyer, Young, Owen, Ward, Ritchie, Moncel.

G Coy Loses to Mac In First Volleyball Final

In the first of a two-game series for the University Volleyball title, played last night in the McGill Gym, MacDonald College trounced G Company in two straight contests, the scores being 21-12, 21-10. The McGill Intercompany Champs, who defeated Independents for the title last week, were no match for the Aggies, and the outcome was never in doubt.

G Coy line-up was: T. Hardwick, G. Mackey, D. Edwards, B. Pearson, C. Spencer, E. Crowther, K. Walter, and M. Popovitch.

Gym Meet For Monday

Strong Competition Expected for Wicksteed Medals

The 60th consecutive annual Wicksteed Gymnastic Meet, oldest McGill indoor athletic event, is to be held Monday evening at 7.30 p.m. at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium. This year, the meet is being held in the honour of Dr. James A. Naismith, former McGill star and winner of the Silver Medal in 1884, and Gold Medal in 1887. This gymnastic competition will be followed by dancing for both competitors and spectators alike.

Seeing as all McGill sports are being conducted on an intercompany basis, this meet will also be scored on an intercompany Point Participation basis. That is, the first ten men in each event will score points for their company. Besides this, there will be no limit to the number of events any one person can compete in.

There will be three separate groups into which competitors will be divided, and each participant will only compete against those in his own class. These are: 1. Freshmen; 2. Sophomores and Seniors; 3. Seniors and Graduates. An all-around winner will be declared for each of the three classes, and to qualify for this the following events will have to be competed for: 1. High Bar; 2. Parallel Bars; 3. Mats; 4. Side Horse or Flying Rings.

AWARDS FOR COMPETITION

Awards for all-around winners will be as follows: Class I: The F. W. Harvey Trophy and Second Grade Letter; Class II: A Bronze Wicksteed Medal and a Second Grade Letter; Class III: A Silver Wicksteed Medal and a Second Grade Letter. In addition to the above awards, the winners on each individual piece of apparatus will receive a Third Grade Letter provided he does not qualify for a higher award.

Following are a list of the seven events to be staged: 1. The Side Horse; 2. The Parallel Bars; 3. The High Bar; 4. The Mats; 5. The Vaulting Box; 6. The Flying Rings; 7. Rope Climbing.

McGill to Hold City Fencing Tournament

It was announced late last night that a large, city-wide Novice Fencing tournament will be staged by the McGill Fencing Club on Monday, March 23rd in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, in which both male and female duellists will participate.

This will be one of the largest fencing meets of the year and representatives of all city fencing clubs are expected to send in entries, which includes strong squads from the various Y.M.C.A.'s and the Y.M.H.A. Those eligible are those who have not entered any previous provincial tournament, and those who have not reached the finals in any novice tournament.

Airmen Flay Infantry in Final Tussle

Law, Farmer Offensive Stars On Forum Ice

The Air Force was really flying yesterday afternoon as they blitzkrieged the Infantry team of the Intra-Mural Hockey League to the tune of 9 to 2. This was the last game in the schedule for the Airmen, and victory placed them in a tie for second place in the standings, with the Artillery, the latter still having one game to play.

LAW LEADS ATTACK

Bob Law, garnering five assists, led the attack for the Air Force, while Hall and Futterer, scoring three goals apiece, were the leading sharpshooters. However the man to watch throughout the entire game was Bud Farmer, star Infantry centreman, who time after time grabbed the puck and stick-handled through the whole opposition, only to have the equally brilliant Air Force goalie, Moncel, out-guess him nearly every time.

The first period saw ragged play on both sides, with poor passing and worse backchecking. The Airmen were the more aggressive of the two, and soon capitalized on the relatively weak Infantry defence. Young rapped in the first goal after a few minutes play, and this was followed several minutes later by two goals by Johnny Hall, Law picking up two assists on the play. The Air Force followed their attack, pressing home the surprise, and the score was soon 4 to 0 in their favour as Futterer slammed home his first goal on a pass from Law. This last seemed to have some beneficial effect on the soldiers, as Farmer and Hellyer paired up, the former scoring on a close-in shot.

The second period was little different than the first in that it failed to show the results of evenly divided play. As things were it featured the fast skating and fancy stickhandling of Farmer and Keay, and the scoring by the Airmen. The Air Force were indulging in some good teamwork and kept swooping in on the attack which resulted in three goals, one by Futterer, the others by Ward, Law picking up two more assists.

FURIOUS PLAY

The last period of the game was by far the most interesting and exciting. Here the Infantry really put on the pressure in a do-or-die effort to turn the score into one more concurrent with their desires. They charged ceaselessly through their opponents only to continually wind up with a vain attempt to get past Moncel. Hellyer started them off going great guns by scoring on Farmer's pass right after the period began. This was his team's last goal, and before the period ended the Air Force scored twice more, making the final score 9 to 2 in their favour.

Line-ups for yesterday's game:
Air Force: V. Young, R. Scoble, B. Law, J. Hall, B. Ward, Moncel, Futterer, Macken, Hylands.
Infantry: J. Keay, C. Doscher, H. Graves, I. Hellyer, Milne, Bryes, Darragh, B. Farmer.
Referee: Earl Smith.

First Period.
1-A. F. Young 2.50
2-A. F. Hall (Law, Ward) 4.13
3-A. F. Hall (Law) 6.58
4-A. F. Futterer (Law) 9.30
5-Inf. Farmer (Hellyer) 13.32
Penalties—None.
Second Period.
6-A. F. Ward (Futterer) .. 12.21
7-A. F. Futterer (Law) .. 12.44

All-Star Cage Winners To Meet RCAF Teams

An interesting series of exhibition basketball games is being arranged by the McGill Athletics Department, in which the final winner and possibly the runner-up team in the Intercompany All-Star Cage League will play against various R.C.A.F. teams from in and around Montreal. These will take place as soon as the current playoffs are over.

Added interest occurs as Busher Jackson, leading scorer in the Big Five League, will play for the McGill Radio Locator Detachment. All games will be played in the Currie Gym.

Redmen in Fitness Show

Gymnastic Squad In Exhibition at Forum Tonight

Tonight at 8.15 p.m., the Mass Physical Fitness Display will get under way at the Forum. Among the featured acts will be the gymnastic display to be put on by the McGill squad in conjunction with the Y.M.C.A., Y.M.H.A., and other organizations.

This is the same Red team that put on such a great show a couple of weeks ago against a powerful M.I.T. invading force. R.V.C. will also be ably represented by their dancers, who will be seen in a folk dancing number.

MANY GROUPS ENTER

This Fitness Display is being organized by Quebec Physical Education Association of which Dr. A. S. Lamb is both founder and Honorary President. Representation of all the Protestant and Catholic schools on the Island will be there to show their recent progress in their physical training.

Proceeds of Match To Purchase War Savings Certificates

If you see a group of grim-faced, red-sweated players determinedly throwing a basketball around the Currie Gym these next few nights, that'll be the McGill Senior team warming up for the big Dodds' Cup annual game come next Monday. With their last chance to grab a win from the League winners looming closer every day, the boys are growing more serious about taking the Oilers into camp and bringing the cup back into the McGill Gym showcase.

This game will be staged as a part of the continent-wide Naismith Golden Jubilee of basketball celebration, and all proceeds will go towards the purchase of War Savings Certificates to swell the Naismith commemoration fund. The varied program, which features five main events, begins with a preliminary junior game at 7.15 between the two top teams in the Montreal Protestant and Catholic Leagues. The Dodds' Trophy match is scheduled to begin at 8.30 p.m., and McGill students will be admitted for twenty-five cents.

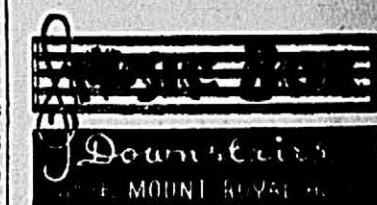

FOUL SHOTS

The free throw contest, in which one representative from each of the five M.B.L. senior teams will compete, is to be held at half time, and although it won't settle anything permanently, you can bet that each F.T. champ will feel a big responsibility when he steps out on the floor. McGill hope will be either Lee Vernon or Bert Holdredge—in an effort to settle the issue the other night they each potted the same number in 85 attempts. None of the other teams have announced their representatives yet, but from a statistical point of view it looks like Wilson of Oilers, Weschler or Waxman from Mt. Royal, Hall or Purdie of Westmount, and Blackburn of Pats.

As an extra-special added attraction the McGill Gymn team will give a repeat performance of their spectacular Illuminated Club swinging, one of the highlights of the Gymkhana, and the evening's fun will be nicely rounded out with a basketball dance open to all in the B.W.F. room.

more effectively. Valuable suggestions can be put forward and this should be done without delay.

Only decisive action on the part of students can demonstrate to the government our anxiety to be useful in this crisis. A program of war work for women on a scale equal to that of summer employment in industry for men is a reasonable expectation. Only by direct contact with the government can we hope to achieve this or any similar project. It is my intention to carry out such a policy if I have the opportunity to do so.

Above all the technique of student control should be adapted to war-time conditions. This is in large part the president's job, a job I am prepared to carry out as effectively as I can. We cannot afford to remain a loose-knit society. We should be organized so that university training can be recognized as an essential contribution towards winning the war and not as a war privilege.

H. Lloyd Henderson

(important as such are) but rather how to face stern realities; not how to make a world which will be warless but how to keep war from destroying the world completely; not how to build a perfect social order, but how to escape economic suicide; not what ideal institutions would do, but how shall we show the vitality of democracy to the world.

The year, which we as students face, will be one of struggle. But let us be encouraged by the fact that where there is a struggle there is sacrifice, co-operation and friendship. Where there is fellowship, there is love and life. Fellow students we must face the coming year with Sacrifice, Service, and Faith.

Because "our" way of life in a very special manner fits us to meet emergencies it is our duty and privilege to do all in our power to preserve Democratic Institutions. The University must continue to be a rigid wall of defence. It must cherish and defend Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Assembly, Freedom in elections, Freedom of the Press and Religious Freedom.

With this in mind I would urge all students to make full use of the right to vote at the coming elections. Mr. Churchill said recently that he learned in his father's home "to trust the people." This most certainly applies to university students. Hence we ask you one and all to vote. For the position of president there are five candidates. This gives you a certain range of choice. The choice must rest with you. If you are not personally solicited to support this platform, you will know that it is because respect is shown for your ability to make up your own mind.

The year we now face must inevitably be one of struggle. Many of our students have already paid the supreme price. We rejoice that we have men and women who in the Cause of Liberty, Justice and Peace have volunteered it necessary to make the supreme sacrifice. Our prayers are ever with them and our eyes scan the heavens for the dawning of that day when we may "fill our sons who see the light High in the heavens their heritage to take."

I saw the powers of darkness put to flight
I saw the morning break."

Regular Meetings of the Students' Society.

In order that students may become better acquainted with the work of the Executive Council, I feel that it is important for meetings of the Students' Society to be held at regular intervals (possibly every two months). At these meetings students would be given an opportunity of expressing their wishes and also of questioning the executive as regards its activity. This would also make for a more democratic system of student government.

Freshman Activities.

This phase of College life has been given considerable attention during the past year. Some improvements could be made and Freshman Rallies are suggested.

Sophomore Committee

In order to further "College Spirit" a Committee could be appointed to make sure that the Sophomore class would have the opportunity of meeting in social functions early in the year.

Clubs and Societies

My wholehearted support will be given in the matter of working for close co-operation between campus clubs and the Students' Council. The various clubs make a very definite contribution to College life; furthermore they provide an opportunity for students to hear outstanding speakers in the various fields.

Football and Hockey

A famous general has said that the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing field of Eton. It would be well for us to keep this in mind at the present time. War is a young man's activity. General McNaughton realizes this fact only too well when he suggests a lowering of the age limit for senior officers. The point is this; can not our war effort be advanced by keeping college students physically fit? And what better means to this end than Inter-Collegiate Sports? In war time student and public morale must be kept at a high level. For this reason I favor a return to some Inter-Collegiate athletics.

Co-operative Book Store

The co-operative book store is an institution on many of our Canadian Campuses; and thereby students are enabled to make a saving of from 12% to 20% on the books which they purchase. I see no reason why this question may not be investigated with a view to establishing such a store at McGill.

McGill Union and Cafeteria.

During the year 1940 the McGill Union sustained a loss of over $3,000.00. Of this amount $800.00 was loss of Cafeteria account. In 1941 the amount of loss in the Union was over $3,500.00 of which $1,000.00 was due to loss on the cafeteria.

It would seem as if this whole situation would bear investigation with a view to more efficient management of student fees.

War Effort and Reconstruction.

As students we must press for an all out war effort in every sphere of activity; this means skilfully trained technicians, medical men, financiers as well as trained officers and men for the various services.

There is also the question of post war reconstruction.

An effort must be made to keep these problems before the student body. Democratic principles must triumph over the Autocratic; Freedom over slavery, Civilization over Barbarism. This is our challenge and as students we accept it. With undaunted zeal we shall strive to hasten the day:

"When the war drums throb no longer
and the battle flags were furled
In the parliament of Man, the Federation of the world."

which are active on the campus contribute in no small measure to the education of a college student. These activities should not be curtailed except where absolutely necessary. I think the student body is anxious for a return of the Red and White Revue, and it seems to me that a show of that type might well be used to raise war funds, while at the same time it would enable those students interested to continue this type of work. Such activities as the "Mile of Pennies," the Blood Bank, and the Guinea Pig Club have already been heartily endorsed by the students, and even more functions would be welcome. Any social events designed to contribute financially to the government's wartime programme should be encouraged.

Athletics

The opinion of the McGill student body with reference to intercollegiate sport has already been expressed in the poll conducted during this past winter. In view of the feelings of the vast majority of the students on this subject, McGill's student representative to the C.I.A.U. meeting this coming June, should do everything possible to see that a modified form of Inter-Collegiate sport, compatible with a maximum war effort, be adopted. The opinions of the governments of the U.S.A. and Great Britain with regard to sport should not be overlooked by that body.

Those in charge of our Intramural programme are doing a wonderful job in providing all students an opportunity to participate in such Athletics as they choose and thus build up their physical as well as mental fitness. They should receive the whole hearted co-operation of the students.

Scholarship.

Particularly in these times, when the government realizes the value of trained men to the country, it should be possible to obtain increasing aid for students who require financial assistance. The president of the Students' Society must do all in his power to see that such aid is forthcoming.

There are probably some matters which warrant a more detailed discussion but in a platform of this type it is obviously impossible to discuss these things fully. Moreover, I do not feel that a candidate for this office is in a position to make any election promises other than the promise to interpret the feelings of the student body to the best of his ability, and to give to the office all the energy and enthusiasm at his disposal.

Advisory Board should be set up as soon as possible. I shall take every opportunity of offering the co-operation of the student body to the authorities. The aim of the War Advisory Board will be to guide students into spheres of action where their abilities can be used to the maximum. This Committee would be able to state the number and abilities of students attending the University as well as their availability for part time work. If this information were made available to the Government it would facilitate the introduction of selective service. To help in publicizing the opportunities open to students the Daily could run a special column giving information on enlistment possibilities, positions in war industry and volunteer work.

The Speeding Up of Courses
In order that Canada may get on with the job we must produce as many trained men as possible as quickly as possible. To do this it seems advisable that the University curriculum be speeded up. Also, in order that our studies will be profitable, the courses offered at present should be reviewed and non-essential courses eliminated while at the same time, courses of a military nature should be added. The University authorities should be offered the co-operation of the student body so that they could help. A student-faculty committee for each faculty would be useful in solving the special problems which will arise concerning each branch of study. In order that no student will be handicapped by any arrangements that will be made the problem of financial assistance, scholarships must be considered.

Co-Eds in Selective Service
The women at the University should be included in all that is done regarding selective service. We should recommend that a training centre similar to the C.O.T.C. be established to train officers for the Canadian Women's Army Corps and other services. A large women's army is contemplated and a great number of officers will be needed. Although at present men only are being considered for summer employment, this should be extended to the women of the University. There are many jobs at which women are as deft as men. Men must be released for important work in the armed forces.

Post War Rehabilitation of Students
The Government has already made a statement concerning this but nothing definite has been established. This is a matter with which students alone are concerned, and we are responsible for obtaining a more definite statement. We owe this to the men and women who have left us to go on active service and to enter war industry, as well as to those who will leave us in the future.

Responsible Government and Student Activities
The primary duty of every student, while he is at College, is to finish his courses. Due to the war our studies have added importance and responsibilities. If our spare time is efficiently organized, we can make a definite contribution. Every student should make it his or her responsibility to sacrifice a small amount of time.

The War Council

We know that the establishment of the War Council was a timely and positive move in the organization of a total war effort on the campus. A great deal has been done this year and with this beginning, we can do even more next year.

In order to involve as many as possible, the students should have greater representation on the main body of the War Council. Each representative should also be the executive of the group he represents. If these groups are small enough, frequent discussions could be had and therefore representative suggestions and criticisms would reach the War Council. On the other hand, when there is a job to be done each group will be allotted a task and the representative will be responsible for seeing that the task is efficiently carried out. With this fanning out of responsibility and by personal contact there will be more incentive for students to take part.

The activities of the War Council should be continuous. If a certain job is worth doing one evening in the year it is probably worth doing every day and evening in the year. In this way it would not be necessary to go to the trouble of persuading great numbers to turn out at any one time. If tasks were allotted to groups by the week or month, it would be possible to take advantage of much spare time which under the present system we must necessarily do without. Two of the outstanding examples on the Campus are the Blood Bank scheme and the Guinea Pig Club, which show how work can be done without fuss or breaking into studies.

Exchange of Ideas with other Universities

In order that we may progress as rapidly as possible, arrangements should be made for the active co-operation between the student governments of the Universities of Canada. At regular intervals or as required, ideas and data on activities should be exchanged, including those of French-Canadian students.

Social Activities and Sports
I suggest that affairs such as dances should be run with a view to collecting money for war services. At the same time we should be more thoughtful of the Air Force men on the campus. They have been entertained on several occasions but this is another matter which should receive more continuous and methodical attention. Various groups on the campus could take the responsibility for this in rotation and in this way make the work more effective.

In order to obtain as clear and exact a picture as possible of current events and a reasonable interpretation of their significance I think that we should take every opportunity of inviting men of national importance to address us.

Every student will be encouraged to take an active interest in sports so that we shall be physically able to do our best work at all times. If at any time it seems possible to extend the sphere of sports beyond the limits of the University, I shall do my best to bring this about.

Freshman Guidance at Registration
It is felt that in the past too little assistance has been given freshmen in adjusting themselves to the University courses and that the activities of the Freshmen Reception Committee should be enlarged in scope to include intelligent discussion on courses.

Before I close I wish to tell you that Charles Harris has played an important part in the drawing up of this platform. We have discussed these matters several times and find that we have many ideas in common. The most important fact that we are agreed upon is that things on the campus must get rolling at top speed. The co-operation of the students is necessary. It is with a promise for action towards this co-operation on the campus that we offer ourselves as candidates to the students of this University.

activity they may wish, insofar as possible.

If national selective service is established or not, it would be my policy, consistent with the time not required for studies, to provide a greater stimulus to an enlarged and more constructive war effort on the part of all students, taking into account the fact that in some courses more study is required than in others. Such an effort, done through the War Council, should be so directed as to be in accordance with the national war needs. If the country needs rubber, aluminium etc., then McGill students should organize a campaign in response to such needs.

The War Council, of which the President of the Student's Society is automatically President, should provide a means whereby students who wish to make a maximum contribution to the war effort in hours not required by their studies, may be furnished the means to do so. However, all work under its auspices should always be voluntary and at no time should it tend to dictate to the students.

The choice of the war charity to which proceeds raised in any of the campaigns should be by vote of those participating in the campaign.

In addition the Council should foster discussion wherein post-war problems could be discussed and also sponsor well-known speakers on such problems at open meetings.

B) Student Self-government

We have at McGill a form of government which can be made to work in fairness to the majority. To have it carried out correctly requires the efforts of people who are interested in student government, and whose curriculum leaves them sufficient time to handle the multitude of jobs to be done.

In the past I have always stood for student self-government; I still do and always will, and will protect such rights to the very best of my ability.

There are countless occasions where the President must choose people to perform various jobs connected with student activity and many decisions have to be made which allow room for prejudice and favour. If elected, I promise to appoint such students and make such decisions on the sole basis of merit and fairness, regardless of any club or society affiliations a student may have, the same basis upon which I should like to be considered as a candidate for election. The principle of fairness is an anchor of good government and I shall do my best, if elected or not, to maintain that principle throughout the entire administration of student affairs.

Students' Executive Council

This year's experience as a member of the Executive Council has taught me many things.

Constitutionally the Executive Council exists to carry out the policy of the Student's Society. In the past, communication of opinions from students to the council have been all too few. If the Council is to carry out its functions accurately, students should be encouraged and stimulated to make their opinions known to the Council.

C) McGill Men Overseas

There are many McGill men serving Canada overseas. Many of the students at McGill would be interested in knowing about where they are, what they are doing, whether there are any little services that may be done for them. I propose to have a depot established on the campus which would co-operate with the Graduates Society, with the military authorities, with the press and with people receiving mail from overseas, in an effort to prepare as much information as possible about McGill men overseas and have it available to the Daily for publication.

It would be the duty of this depot, too, to encourage McGill men overseas to write to it in order to further its efforts.

D) Military Training

If military training next year is of a similar nature to that carried out during the past two years, there are a few things which students would like altered. The President of the Student's Society has no power in this connection. All the training is carried on under the supervision of the Ministry of National Defence. However the President of the Student's Society can make recommendations. If elected to the Presidency I shall co-operate with the local military authorities, bringing to their attention at all times the wishes of the student body.

E) Athletics

Students should devote enough time to athletics to keep fit and maintain morale. I am heartily in favour of the return of intercollegiate competition as soon, and upon as large a scale, as is feasible. No candidate can promise to effect such a return, but should the occasion arise where it is a possibility, and where it would not conflict with studies and military training, I shall bend every effort towards its reinstatement.

For those who through lack of time or ability, cannot play on a representative university team, I am in favour of a large intra-mural program, and believe that such activity should receive a whole-hearted support from the student body.

Having spent three years in managerial positions of football teams in the days of intercollegiate sport, and another year as senior football manager and having been on the Student's Athletic Council, I propose to utilize this experience to the best advantage of student athletic activity of the University.

F) College Summer Session

If the College, or only part, is open this summer, as in the case of many American Universities, student activity should be carried out in proportion to the number of students attending. This would involve a deviation from the normal routine activities of the President and a sound grounding in student government would be advantageous, or even necessary, to cope with new problems as would undoubtedly

G) Freshman Reception

There should be a Freshmen reception programme which would be even more successful than last year's. Green bow ties, as before, a better vigilante committee to keep the frosh interested, and above all, an attempt to instill into them a ready McGill spirit and build a unity in the class that will carry them through the years.

This kind of programme is very important because it is in the first year of college that students develop a rather permanent attitude towards college and we should make every effort to steer these attitudes in the right direction.
